

Innovations Set For New School, Board Reports

New ideas in school building will be incorporated into the Hickory Ave. Elementary School, 230th and Hickory Ave., under preliminary plans approved Tuesday night by the Torrance Board of Education.

Plans drawn by Neptune and Thomas, architects, show ten-sided classroom buildings. Each would have five classrooms arranged around a central teachers' work and storage areas. Another feature would be sliding panels allowing adjustment of classroom size.

THESE proposals were made by a committee of principals and administrators who studied ideas and construction plans from all parts of the country. They felt this arrangement would be more efficient, while costing no more than more conventional "finger-style" classrooms.

The Hickory facility will contain 10 classrooms, two kindergarten rooms, multipurpose building, and administration unit. Total cost is expected to be about $450,000. It will serve a new subdivision located south west of Sepulveda and Crenshaw.

THE UNUSUAL arrangement of the classrooms is designed to permit more efficient use of storage and teachers' work equipment. Nearly everything needed for instructional purposes—TV sets, pianos, movie projectors, record players, etc.—could be housed in the central storage area, easily accessible to each room in the building. Also, it might eliminate some duplication of equipment.
